

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

It's time to make a change.

Learning Outcome

Exchange advice and suggestions in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- Are there any problems with your work or school routine you wish you could change?
- What changes would you make in your life?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about jobs, work, and staying healthy.
- I can talk about cause and effect.
- I can talk about wishes and imaginary situations.

Let's Explore!

Peter catches up with Sally.

* To "catch up" means to get updates from a friend on what's new in their life.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Peter: Hey, Sally. How are you?

Sally: Oh, hi, Peter. I'm exhausted. I just came home from work. How are you doing?

Peter: Oh, I'm pretty beat too. I just came back from the gym.

Sally: If I went to the gym, I might feel less stressed.

Peter: Are you eating and sleeping well? It's imperative that you stay healthy if your days are so demanding.

Sally: You're right. If I take the time, I can cook nutritious meals. If I went to bed earlier, I would feel more rested the next day.

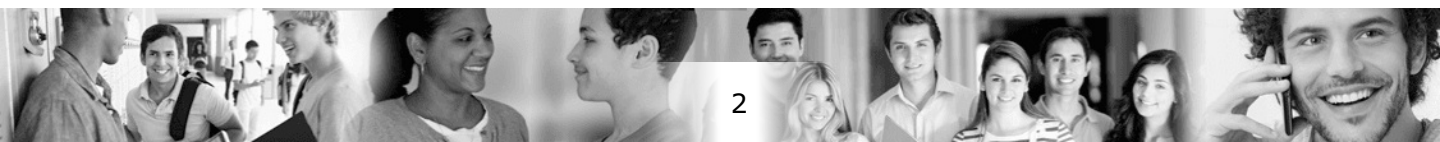

Peter: I find that when I go to the gym even for just 30 minutes, I feel invigorated.

Sally: I agree. If I eat better, my body has more energy. My boss is always so demanding.

Peter: If I became the boss, I would treat all my employees fairly and not overwork them. Ultimately, people are unhappy if they're overworked. If employees are unhappy, they aren't as productive.

Sally: All I know is, if I won the lottery, I would go back to Africa. Well, I'd better get back at it.

Peter: Try not to stay up too late.

Let's Practice!

This is how we talk about work and staying healthy.

Instructions: Write "Jobs and Work" or "Being Healthy".

1. Sleeping well _____
2. Should be cooking for yourself _____
3. Being productive _____
4. Overworked _____
5. Eating nutritious meals _____
6. Going to the gym _____
7. A demanding boss _____
8. Stress _____

Let's Practice!

If things were different, how would your lifestyle change?

Instructions: Proofread the sentence. Write down the correct word to complete the sentence. Use capital letters where necessary.

1. If I went to bed earlier, I would felt fresh the next day.
2. If I become the boss, I would treat all my employees fairly and not overwork them.
3. If I won the lottery, I would went back to Africa.
4. If you stay up late, you will been exhaust the next day.
5. If every employee was unhappy, the company wasn't be successful.

Extension Activity

Write sentences on what changes you would make if you were able to change your life.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- With a partner, discuss what positive changes you would make related to your job and work. You can talk about free time, money, your job, or any other aspect of jobs and work.
- Write two conditional sentences for each area. For example: If I could have any job, I would be a ...
- Read your sentences to your partner.
- Discuss your ideas.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I talk about jobs and work.

☐ ☐

I write conditional sentences.

☐ ☐

I talk about my wishes.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- exhausted (adjective): to be so tired that you have no energy left
e.g. Sally is exhausted from her demanding job.
- beat (adjective): an informal way to say you're tired
e.g. Peter is beat because he just came back from the gym.
- relief (noun): when something unpleasant or painful has gone away
e.g. If Sally went to the gym, she would get some relief from her stress.
- to overwork (verb): working overtime on a regular basis
e.g. If Peter became the boss, he would not overwork his employees.
- optimal (adjective): at the best level
e.g. If people are overworked, they can't be productive at an optimal level.
- to get back at (expression): to return to a task you were doing a little while ago
e.g. You've had a long break, so you'd better get back at it.

Learning Points

Conditional Sentences

You use the zero conditional for facts and generalities – things that are always true. Where the condition is met, there is only one possible outcome. This happens every time. You are not focusing on the future.

This is different from other conditional sentences, something can be likely to happen, or unlikely to happen when the condition is met in the future.

For example:

If you heat water, it boils.

If I go to bed earlier, I feel more rested.

Form:

If + Present Simple tense, Present Simple

You use the first conditional when the condition is possible.

For example:

If it starts to rain, I'll take an umbrella.

If you get tired, we'll stop and sit for a while.

Form:

If + Present Simple, will

You use the second conditional when the condition is impossible or unlikely.

For example:

If I were you, I wouldn't talk to her again.

If I won some money, I would take a trip.

Form:

If + Past Simple, would

Note that you need a comma when you write the condition before the result.

Examples:

- If it rains, the streets will get wet.
- When it rains, the streets get wet.
- If you ride your bike, you get there faster.
- If I won the lottery, I would buy a new house.
- I would buy a new house if I won the lottery.
- If I had a chauffeur, I wouldn't have to walk.

