

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Do you have any plans after work?

Learning Outcome

Identify and describe events in the news in a range of social and work contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can start and end a conversation on the phone.
- I can talk about staying healthy.
- I can talk about wishes and imaginary situations.

Ask your partner:

- What do you do after work or school to rest your mind?
- Do you go out with friends? Where do you go?

Let's Explore!

Vanessa gets a phone call from Sally after work.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Helen: Hello, Bistro 88. Can I help you?
Sally: Hi. Could you put me through to the manager please?
Helen: I'm sorry, but we're closed. She's occupied at the moment.
Sally: Sorry. Can you speak up? Please tell her it's Cambridge Life magazine calling.
Helen: Sure. Hold on a moment, please.
Vanessa: Hello, this is the manager. Who's speaking?
Sally: Hey, Vanessa. It's Sally.
Vanessa: Oh, it's you! I'm closing up. What's going on?
Sally: I'm in the neighborhood. If you want to go out, I could meet you.
Vanessa: Oh, Sally. I'm so tired. I'll pass out if I stay up any longer. If I drink alcohol, it will just knock me out completely.
Sally: Oh, Vanessa. If we had a bed on rollers, we could roll you home after.
Vanessa: What I need is a vacation. If I went away tomorrow, I would lie on the beach for a week.
Sally: Your body can only put up with so much stress. Sooner or later, it's going to break down. You wouldn't want that to happen.
Vanessa: No, I wouldn't. So, I'd better turn in for the night. Sorry, Sally, I'm going to let you go. We'll talk soon.
Sally: Alright. Take care, OK?
Vanessa: I will. Thanks. Bye.

Let's Practice!

You need recovery time!

Instructions: Read the sentences. Select the correct phrasal verbs to complete the sentence. There are extra options you do not need to use.

pass up / pass out / break down / knock me up / break down / put up / go away / knock me out

1. I'm so tired that I feel like I'm going to _____.
2. I'm already exhausted, so alcohol would just _____ completely.
3. When I _____ on vacation, I like to lie on the beach and do nothing.
4. Your body can only _____ with so much stress.
5. With so many demands on your body, it is going to _____.

Let's Practice!

Do you know polite greetings to use on the phone?

Instructions: Select all the correct answers.

1. Select all the phrases you might hear at the beginning of a conversation.

☐ Hello. Can I help you?
☐ Hi. Could I speak to the manager please?
☐ Hold on a moment, please.
☐ Hello, this is the manager. Who's speaking please?
☐ Hey, Vanessa. It's Sally.
☐ Oh, it's you. I'm closing up. What's going on?
☐ Take care!

2. Select all the phrases you might hear at the end of a conversation.

☐ I'm going to let you go now.
☐ How are you?
☐ We'll talk soon.
☐ Take care.
☐ This is Gail.
☐ Bye!
☐ Goodbye!

Extension Activity

Write a dialogue about plans to go out with a friend after work.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Write a dialogue about plans you make with a friend after work. You want to go out but you don't want to stay out late.
- Use phrasal verbs related to health.
- Use conditional sentences.
- Practice the dialogue with a partner.
- Change roles.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I write a dialogue about social plans.

☐ ☐

I talk about staying healthy.

☐ ☐

I talk about wishes, conditions and results.

☐ ☐

I practice speaking smoothly.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- to close up (verb): to close a business for the day; to stop operation
e.g. There are still a few customers, but I'm going to close up the restaurant at 11 p.m.
- What's going on? (expression): a casual way to ask what's happening or "How are you?"
e.g. Hi, Sally. Nice to hear from you. What's going on?
- to pass out (verb): to faint or lose consciousness
e.g. I'm so tired. I'll pass out if I stay up any longer.
- to go away (verb): to go out of the city on vacation
e.g. If I went away tomorrow, I would lie on the beach for a week.
- to put up with (verb): to endure or accept a certain mental or physical condition
e.g. Your body can only put up with so much stress.
- to break down (verb): to stop functioning normally e.g. Sooner or later, your body is going to break down from all the stress.
- to turn in (noun): to go to bed
e.g. I'm tired, so I'm going to turn in for the night.

Learning Points

Phrasal Verbs

There are various phrasal verbs that are used to talk about different things.

Phrasal verbs are constructed with:

verb + particle/preposition

The verb by itself has one meaning and takes on a different meaning when put together with the preposition.

Here is a list of phrasal verbs for talking on the phone and one list for talking about health.

Phrasal Verb for Talking on the Phone	Example to put through	Could you put me through to the manager?
to hold on	Please hold on for a moment. I'll see if the manager is available.
to hold on	Can you speak up? I can't hear you very well.
Phrasal Verb for Talking about Health	Example
to pass out	I'm so tired that I will pass out if I stay up any longer.
to knock out	Since I'm so tired, alcohol would knock me out completely.
to go away	You'll rest your mind if you go away on vacation for a week.
to put up with	Your body can only put up with a limited amount of stress.
to break down	If you don't get some rest, your body is going to break down.
to turn in	Maybe you should turn in early and get a good sleep.

Learning Points

Conditional Sentences with If Clauses

With conditional sentences using if clauses, one part is the condition and the other part is the result.

Two types of conditional sentences talk about imaginary situations in the future: the first and the second conditional.

Each conditional form uses a different verb form.

Type of Conditional	Explanation	Structure	Example
First Conditional	You're talking about the future. There is a real possibility that this condition will happen.	If + condition in Present Simple, will + base verb	• If you want to go out, I could meet you. • I'll pass out if I stay up any longer. • If I drink alcohol, it will knock me out completely.
Second Conditional	You're still talking about the future. However, there is not a real possibility the condition will happen.	If + condition in Past Simple, would + base verb	• If we had a bed on rollers, we could roll you home from the pub. • If I went away tomorrow, I would lie on the beach for a week.

